Forbes

forbes.com

“The digital ministry of Kazakhstan has set up Astana Hub, an entity to promote entrepreneurship, innovation and economic development. This provides support to startups and small businesses through its incubation and acceleration programs.”

cb

crunchbase.com

“The most advanced country in the region in terms of digitalization, Kazakhstan is also ahead in terms of startup and venture activity. The first initiatives date back 20 years ago with the launch of the National Innovation Fund in 2003 and the adoption of a law on investment and venture funds in 2004. However, tech innovation programs truly kicked off in 2018, when the government launched Astana Hub and Astana International Financial Centre.”
